Not illustrated. 1921 Excerpt: . . . of high land which forms the northern end of the Taconic range. On the west and northwest the spur is bounded by the valley of the Lemon Fair River, which is a southward extension of the Champlain lowland between the Taconic hills. On the east and northeast the spur is bounded by the low, swampy flood plain of Otter Creek, along which the Champlain lowland merges with the Vermont valley. The spur falls off gradually in altitude northward into the low schist ridge of Whiting, which is flanked on the east and west by limestone. There are certain structural features both within the spur and along its margins which will be described in detail beyond. General geological features. As one passes eastward from the lake region through the Taconic range towards the Green Mountains the confusion in field relations and the difficulty of interpretation increase. The...
